the data gaze is a 'prosthetic vision,' a 'kind of prosthetic eye with which to see the data,' 'inescapable and comprehensive'

'I would like to insist on the embodied nature of all vision, and so reclaim the sensory system that has been used to signify a leap out of the marked body and into a conquering gaze from nowhere...

the only way to find a larger vision is to be somewhere in particular'

'Foucault offers us the prism as a metaphoric optical technology for informing the critical gaze otherwise (see Deleuze 1988). Rather than operationalize critique through distance and separation, as is the case with the mirror-upon-mirror arrangement, Foucaultian prismatic critique relies on subjects and objects being in porous and proximal relations'

'In a world as myriad as ours, the gaze is a singular act: to look at something is to fill your whole life with it, if only briefly'
